PROGRESS REPORT ON PRIORITY DEFICIENCIES OF RESEARCH
by EIC Subcommittee on Population and Manpower

Survey of Research on Sino-Soviet Bloc Population and Manpower

Gaps in Intelligence	Progress to Date
I. CRITICAL DEFICIENCIES
A. Productivity of Labor
(To meet this deficiency, the intelligence community is still concentrating the major research effort on basic labor force aggregates for the various countries. For the USSR, however, Census and CIA are devoting an increasing amount of research effort to more detailed distributions of employment to pave the way for more intensive analysis of labor productivity. Although important gaps on labor input and output still impede the productivity studies, past research efforts on the USSR, together with the increasing amount of Soviet literature on the subject, have enhanced the likelihood of successful research in depth in this area.)	A. 1. B. Population and Manpower Resources of Regional and Urban Areas	B. 1. Studies Completed in FY 1960
(Official publication of handbooks on the national economies of the various republics, oblasts, and krais in the USSR have added materially to estimates of population and manpower of regional and urban areas for the USSR, but great gaps still remain. Materials on the European Satellites and Communist China are still inadequate. Materials on North Vietnam and North Korea are scarce and of low quality.	Air - Political and Population Survey (A series of 159 studies were planned, covering major political sub-divisions of the USSR; 83 have been completed, 14 in FY 60. The remaining studies have been cancelled.) Target Data Inventory (One section of this inventory includes population estimates for each urban target area.) The 1959 Annual Estimates of Political and Demographic Composition of the Sino-Soviet Bloc Census - European Satellite Population Distribution Study Projections of the Population of Czechoslovakia by Age and Sex, 1960-76 Projections of the Population of Rumania by Age and Sex, 1960-76 Projections of the Population of the Soviet Zone of Germany and the Soviet Sector of Berlin by Age and Sex, 1960-76 Estimates and Projections of the Population of the USSR by Age and Sex, 1950-78 (Tables only) Cities of Mainland China, 1953 and 1958 Size, Composition, and Growth of the Population of Mainland China

III. OTHER IMPORTANT PROBLEMS

A. Statistical Systems, Concepts, and Definitions
Underlying Population and Manpower Data

(Statistics appearing in handbooks or announced as census results are seldom accompanied by adequate definitions and explanations in publications of the bloc countries. Such definitions and explanations are essential in determining the meaning of the data as well as their relative validity. International comparisons are virtually impossible without such foreknowledge.)
